

About Greg Hutchinson President, Barker Hutchinson

As the President of Barker Hutchinson, Greg assists regulators to solve problems by empowering them with the information necessary to make fair and informed decisions. Greg is responsible for both maintaining and developing client relations while also providing investigation training and workshops for professional regulators and speaking at conferences and continuing professional education events.

Greg is also deeply focused on building a sophisticated, methodical, yet pragmatic team of investigators from a variety of backgrounds, and ensuring they have the training, skill set and support necessary to both thrive and bring meaningful conclusions each investigation.

With nearly 15 years experience as an investigator, Greg brings a wealth of investigative expertise to professional regulators. Greg has significant experience investigating allegations of fraud/inappropriate billing practices, sexual abuse, unauthorized practice and undercover matters, amongst other professional misconduct and practice related issues, for professional regulators.

Greg was an analyst in the reinsurance industry prior to joining Barker Hutchinson. Greg holds an Honours Bachelor of Commerce degree from the University of Guelph.
